Sukiyaki is a popular Japanese Nabemono dish (Japanese hot pot) usually eaten during the Winter season.

It consists of meat (usually thinly sliced beef) slowly cooked with vegetables and other ingredients, in a shallow iron pot in a soup mixture of soy sauce, sugar and mirin. A small bowl of raw, beaten eggs is used as a dipping sauce.

Sukiyaki restaurants often offer a "tabehoudai" allowing an all you can eat meal.
